

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR
COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
STATE HOUSE • BOSTON, MA 02133
(617) 725-4000

DEVAL L. PATRICK
GOVERNOR

TIMOTHY P. MURRAY
LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

January 7, 2009

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives:

I am filing for your consideration the attached bill entitled, "An Act to Improve the Laws Relating to Ethics and Lobbying."

This proposed legislation is the culmination of 60 days of thoughtful and diligent work by the Task Force on Public Integrity, a 13-member bi-partisan group which included my Chief Legal Counsel, eight members of the public, and four legislators representing the Senate and House Ethics Committees. The Task Force was charged with proposing specific recommendations to improve the Commonwealth's ethics and lobbying laws. The bill incorporates input from experts as well as the public.

The Task Force identified significant gaps and weaknesses in the mechanisms for investigating and enforcing the ethics and lobbying rules, the laws defining the obligations of lobbyists, the penalties imposed for violations, and the education requirements for government employees and lobbyists. This bill includes a series of proposals to strengthen investigative and enforcement authority, improve the lobbying laws, enhance penalties, and impose education and training requirements.

Under this bill, the State Ethics Commission is empowered to promulgate rules and regulations, to issue mandatory summonses, and to share information with other agencies responsible for enforcing other state laws relating to public integrity.

The bill empowers the Secretary of State with the authority to issue regulations and implement the lobbying laws, to issue mandatory summonses, and to impose fines and other sanctions. It also directs the Secretary to, upon request, issue confidential, binding advisory opinions providing guidance on the lobbying laws.

The bill provides the Attorney General with several investigative and enforcement tools, including the authority to make consensual recordings of conversations in public corruption cases, to seek penalties for a new statutory obstruction of justice offense, and to convene a statewide grand jury. In addition, the bill creates a new criminal offense prohibiting persons from fraudulently violating or causing another to violate the standards of conduct provisions of the conflict of interest law.

This bill also strengthens and clarifies the lobbying laws. Specifically, the bill includes improved definitions of executive and legislative agents, a definition of lobbying that includes acts done in preparation for a communication to influence a government employee, a revolving door provision that applies to the executive branch, and clearer reporting requirements.

The existing civil and criminal penalties for violations of the ethics and lobbying laws are inadequate for effective enforcement and deterrence. In both areas, the laws have not been updated in decades and include maximum civil and criminal sanctions that are far below those that apply in the federal system and in many other states and are inadequate to reflect the Commonwealth's necessary commitment to integrity in our public officials and our government. Accordingly, this bill calls for tougher penalties, including increases in the maximum fines and prison terms for bribery and the full range of other ethics and lobbying related offenses.

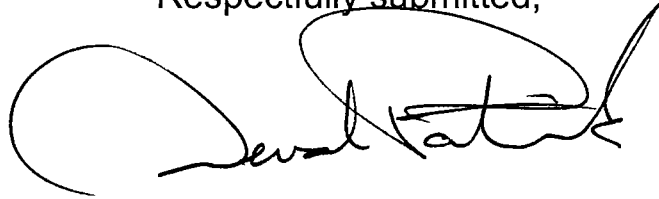

In both the areas of ethics and lobbying, there are insufficient mechanisms in place to ensure that those who must comply with rules have a necessary understanding of what those rules require and what steps they can take to ensure their own compliance. Accordingly, this bill includes recommendations to address this deficiency through mandatory education. The bill requires the Ethics Commission to provide all government employees with information concerning the ethics laws, and to provide a mandatory online training course for state employees. The Secretary of State will be required to provide all lobbyists with training on the lobbying laws.

The attached summary describes each section of the proposed legislation.

Now is the time to assure ourselves and the public that preserving integrity in our government is one of our highest priorities and that the consequences for breaching the public trust will be serious, swift and certain. I urge your prompt and favorable action on this bill.

Respectfully submitted,

The state secretary may file a civil action in superior court to enforce this order.

(k) Final action by the state secretary under this section shall be subject to review in superior court upon petition of any party in interest filed within 30 days after the action for which review is sought. The court shall enter a judgment enforcing, modifying, or setting aside the order of the state secretary, or it may remand the proceedings to the state secretary for such further action as the court may direct. If the court modifies or sets aside the state secretary's order or remands the proceedings to the state secretary, the court shall determine whether such modification, set aside, or remand is substantial. If the court does find such modification, set aside, or remand to be substantial, the petitioner shall be entitled to be reimbursed from the treasury of the commonwealth for reasonable attorneys' fees and all court costs incurred by him in the defense of the charges contained in the proceedings. The amount of such reimbursement shall be awarded by the court but shall not exceed $20,000 per person, per case.
